ORDER DENYING POST-JUDGMENT
MOTIONS

These pro se civil rights actions were dismissed in late September - early October 2014. Within a few days after (or in a few actions, before) the entry of judgment, Plaintiff filed in each action an ex parte application opposing dismissal and/or an ex parte declaration opposing dismissal. Plaintiff's application and declarations opposing the dismissals are construed in each action to be a motion for relief from the judgment under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 60(b). See Docket # 23 in Case No. C 14-2533 EMC; Docket # 22 in Case No. C 14-2535 EMC; Docket # 18 in Case No. C 14-2786 EMC; Docket # 20 in Case No. C 14-2787 EMC; Docket # 18 in Case No. C 14-2788 EMC; Docket # 19 in Case No. C 14-2790 EMC; Docket # 21 in Case No. C 14-2792 EMC; Docket # 22 in Case No. C 14-2793 EMC; Docket # 22 in Case No. C 14-2794 EMC; Docket # 16 in Case No. C 14-2859 EMC; Docket # 15 in Case No. C 14-2878 EMC; and Docket # 18 in Case No. C 14-3235 EMC. In each action, the motion for relief from the judgment is DENIED because Plaintiff does not identify any basis for setting aside the judgment; he does not identify any of the listed

1 reasons or even provide a reason that might fit under Rule 60(b)(6)'s catch-all provision for relief
2 from the judgment. His mere disagreement with, or opposition to, a dismissal is not a proper ground
3 to set that dismissal aside.
